THE ANTI'S MEET

Pursuant to Call at the Court House Last Night.

In response to a call published yesterday the anti-dispensary advocates met in the court house last night. It was an adjourned meeting and was called to order by W. Giles Mebane, chairman. Mr. R. R. King was called upon to explain the object of the meeting, the same being to protest against the enactment of a dispensary law.

He said the anti-dispensary people had no showing in the matter; that Senator Wilson and the dispensary delegation arranged for the primary without giving the other side a chance to be heard. He thinks drunkenness is decreasing in Greensboro, and that there is no demand for a dispensary here.

Major Stedman did not come to make a speech, but he wanted to say for himself that it was wrong to pass sumptuary laws, taking away personal rights and liberties. He thought that the chairmen of the two political parties in Guilford had written an address which they had no right to write. Struck the church people for undertaking the debauching business of selling whiskey.

David Schenck, Jr., said it was not his pleasure to reach down in his pocket and feel a 'retainer' on which he could invite his friends to enjoy themselves after the meeting. He didn't come expecting to make a speech and would not discuss the legal phase of the question; but expressed a doubt about the moral right of the legislature to pass the bill. He sees serious detriment to the democratic party and to business in this movement. Pass the dispensary law and people will be advised not to go to Greensboro. "If you go there," said the speaker, "you will go among narrow-minded people who have taken up cranky notions." He thought the curfew ordinance would hurt the city. It is not a question of morals. Charlotte is agitating, but not to the degree of success that has been attained here.

Judge Adams did not come to make a speech. He had just moved to town and couldn't vote. He said if it was wrong for individuals to sell whiskey it was wrong for a town. The business and churches are prospering, why stir up bad blood? How can preachers advocate going into the business?

Ceasar Cone didn't like to try to follow experienced speakers. He at first thought there was no opposition to the dispensary, but on looking around he was led to believe there is some. Said he had paid out more money to laborers than any half dozen men in Greensboro. In his business drunkenness is a cause for immediate dismissal. Whiskey is a hard master. It is at times also a servant; and in weather like this a pretty good servant. Said there are worse things than drinking whiskey; that for his part he had rather have a woman about his house a drunkard than a snuff dipper.

Moses H. Cone said he was glad to see the crowd sober; that he had been led to believe that an anti-dispensary crowd would be drunk. A dispensary will make drunkards. It is cold-blooded, uncharitable and unchristian to drive barroom men out of business. "I was the man" said he "who conceived the idea that Greensboro had a great future ahead if its splendid advantages were properly utilized. I conceived the idea that Greensboro might be made a city." He didn't care if he got on somebody's toes; he didn't live here. People were hardly christians who would kick barroom men out of business. He said Senator Wilson had told him this bill should never become a law unless the people had a chance first to vote upon it; but when the dispensary delegation went down to Raleigh Mr. Wilson lost his backbone and deliberately went back on his former statement.

After Mr. Cone finished speaking the following resolution was introduced by Major Stedman and unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that all those who oppose the agitation of the question of the establishment of a dispensary in Greensboro, at the present time, abstain entirely, from taking any part in the proposed primaries, called by the board of aldermen for next Thursday—believing the same to be without warrant of law, and not binding upon any of our people. So undisputed and universal is this feeling that we do not believe the result of such proposed primaries as are suggested would reflect, to any extent, public sentiment.

J. L. Fonda, Secretary. W Giles Mebane, Chairman.

Petitions were then circulated asking the legislature to refrain from passing a dispensary law for Greensboro.

Blue Birds Have returned.

Mr. A. M. Rea, of the county, said to the Charlotte Observer yesterday: "Say that I notice that since democrats got back in power and we got a democratic legislature, that the blue birds have come back. They went away four years ago and are just now coming back."

SOME QUESTIONS ANSWERED

There Is Some Evidence That This Is Greensboro

AND THERE ARE SOME MEN HERE

Is Not a Majority of Petitioners in Favor of a Measure Evidence of a Demand For It?

Who said that the Puritans did not hang women for witches?

Do you want that progressive city of Charlotte get ahead of Greensboro in the establishment of a dispensary? Charlotte wants one bad.

Fayetteville is not as "dead" as she used to be, neither is Athens. South Greensboro, High Point, Concord and Burlington have prohibition. Are they dead towns? What about Louisburg, Spartanburg, Greenville and Columbia?

Do you mean to say that the men who buy whiskey are ashamed of it? you object to the register do you? In other words you object to the dispensary because there will be no back door.

Who said that Greensboro is a "drunken, debauched town?" Name your man if you can.

Your great concern is vacant stores, is it? Did you know that Fayetteville "before taking" had 13 saloons and 18 vacant store rooms, and that after taking she had one dispensary and 6 vacant stores?

Would you object if the $100,000.00 capital owned and controlled by the liquor men were invested in manufacturing in Greensboro Had it occurred to you that it might work out that way?

Don't you fret about the "cranky" city of Greensboro being alone in the dispensary business. "There are others," and there will be more

Are the people of Guilford county going to kick very hard because they will have to accept $4,000 from one dispensary instead of $900 from nine barrooms? Think you they will howl much?

"Who is going to run the dispensary?" Dollars to doughnuts that it will be one of your crowd. We don't know enough about the business.

"Where is the dispensary going to keep its bank account?" Ask the board of aldermen. They will elect the board of directors.

South Carolina leads the South in the manufacture of cotton. Didn't you know that?

Are we a city of babies and children or are we a set of men? Which side has said they "won't play" on Thursday?

"Is this Benaja, Brown's Summit, etc., or is it Greensboro?" Is this Proximity or is it Greensboro?

Does capital inquire whether liquor is sold in packages or by the drink, and does it care a fig, and if so, why? Do cotton mills require open saloons for their business.

"If there is less drunkenness in Greensboro than ever before" does that argue that there can't be less still?

Now, really, was there not a public demand for this dispensary law? What would 760 voters against 88 vice presidents indicate?

How many of those new people do you want who won't come because we are not up-to-date on beer gardens.

Do you mean to say that you want "wine as free as water, served with your meals like Frenchmen?" Hasn't that plan had its day?

Who is the best witness as to sobriety in Fayetteville, Judge McRae, a paid attorney and non-resident, or S. C. Rankin, J. W. McNeill, G. G. Myrover, A. E. Rankin and R. M. Prior, disinterested citizens of the town?

Does this demand for a dispensary come from the people who are fighting to make a city of Greensboro? You are mistaken if you think you are "the only one in the fight." Some of us were in this fight before Summit Avenue opened the way from Proximity to this prosperous suburb. We do not import cotton mills and wholesale houses, but we have a few factories and old original wholesale houses of our own which you seem to have lost sight of, and no man or set of men need think they have an exclusive monopoly in the endeavor to make Greensboro a city.

In a city election who are the qualified voters and where will you find them if not on the city registration books? The city clerk made a sworn statement that there were 948 by actual count. Our first speaker before the the legislative committee frankly admitted that their were more on the county books.

Are you not trying to settle this question without investigation? Where is your evidence? Have you introduced any? Are theories and assumptions the thing for a jury? Where are your facts? Have you got any?

When 88 vice presidents say that 760 voters cannot have a certain police regulation, who is trying to run the town?

If the feeling of disapproval of the proposed primary is so "undisputed and universal" and if the demand for it does not "to any extent reflect public sentiment," has it occurred to you that all you have to do to defeat this dispensary bugaboo is to go to the polls Thursday and vote?

MR. WOODROFFE ANSWERED.

Is The Barroom The Custodian of Any Man's Rights.

Editor Telegram:—We notice in yesterday's paper a communication from friend Thos. Woodroffe which, when source is considered, is entitled to answer. And first, as to the working man's liberty. This writer has been a working man all his life, but has never yet realized that the barroom was ever the custodian of his liberty, his rights, his respectability or material advancement.

As to refreshment houses, start the ball Brother, we will help man for man on your side.

It is the principle of the barroom that is abused and only the judgment of the barkeeper that is criticised, for it is the only business that we know of where the product is to be ashamed of. And then from what we see on our streets, they show such poor judgment in knowing when a man has enough.

We can but suppose the next point made is based on the selfishness of human nature, as he only claims to have manifested interest in but one man. The next point and most serious of all, if our preachers are actuated by the same motive as the bar-keepers, oh! where are we drifting? Almost a slander on Paisley, Doub, Barringer, Wilson, Smith, Stickney and other good men gone to their reward.

One more point he makes, and we close. That is his sumptuary clause. We would refer him to the first few verses of the third chapter of Genesis, (which should be good authority for our friends.) There he will find the author of his sumptuary idea, which was promulgated at that meeting and has been giving the human family trouble ever since. Wm. Love.

A MYSTERIOUS INFANT,

During the snow storm Saturday night, some one knocked at the door of Emma Wall's home on South Mint street and placed in the arms of the old colored woman, what she supposed to be a bundle of shawls and clothing. The mysterious stranger departed without disclosing his name, saying as he left that he had been asked to deliver the package to the Wall woman.

The bundle was unwrapped and beneath the woolen wraps a male infant was found sleeping peacefully. Yesterday morning the old colored woman made the facts known to some of the neighbors. She refuses to tell much concerning the mysterious child, but that she will take care of it until the mother calls.

A News reporter learned this morning that the child's mother is a resident of Alabama and that the mother came to Charlotte several weeks ago. The Wall woman says the infant is about a week old.—Charlotte News.

THE RELIEF WORK.

Over One Hundred and Fifty Families Supplied Yesterday.

The work of supplying provisions and fuel to destitute families is being vigorously and systematically prosecuted. The relief committees yesterday supplied over one hundred and fifty families with either fuel or provisions. The relief fund has been augmented by several more contributions. W. H. Watkins, of Ramseur, telegraphed ten dollars yesterday and among some of the larger contributions this morning was twenty-five dollars each from Messrs. Moses and Ceasar Cone. The work is so well organized and so vigorously carried out that it is believed all actual suffering will be avoided.

SUFFERING IN REIDSVILLE.

City Authorities Hold up a Train and Take Coal.

The suffering from lack of fuel in Reidsville yesterday was such that the city authorities stopped a southbound freight train and demanded that the conductor cut out and leave two car loads of coal, which were a part of his train, there. At first the conductor refused, but when informed that the city must and would have it before the train would be allowed to leave there he sidetracked the cars of coal, received payment for it and came on his way with a less heavy train. The coal was for a South Carolina firm.

Held in a Drift.

Yesterday was a hard one on the newspaper carrier boys and one little fellow, it is said, came near freezing to death. Henry Blanchard, 10 or 12 years old, carries papers for the Record. While delivering his papers last evening he says he got into a snow drift several feet deep and the more he tried to get out the deeper it got. He was found almost frozen late last night by a gentleman who carried him home. He was given attention and is all right today.

FILIPINOS FIRED THE TOWN

But Prompt Landing of Americans Saved the Place.

GENERAL MILLER TAKES ILOILO.

Not an American Soldier or Sailor Was Killed—Filipinos Routed With Considerable Loss

By Cable to THE TELEGRAM.

Manila, Feb. 14—The gunboat Petrel has just returned here with the details of the taking of Iloilo Saturday. General Miller occupied the town without the loss of an American soldier or sailor. The Filipinos at first offered slight resistance, but the cruiser Boston and the gunboat Petrel routed the Filipinos with considerable loss.

Before retiring the Filipinos fired the town in several places, but the prompt landing of the Americans saved the town from destruction. Troops were detailed at once to distinguish the flames which they accomplished before much damage was done. Several banks were menaced, but the flames were prevented from reaching them.

The engagement began Saturday morning, the Boston and Petrel replying to the weak attempt of the Filipinos to defend their position.

Trains Still Tied Up.

By Wire to the TELEGRAM.

Pittsburg, Feb. 14—For the first time in many years all through trains in Pennsylvania are completely blocked and trains of all kinds are abandoned. Telegraphic communication for a long time uninterrupted. The last through train from the East went through early yesterday afternoon. The crews of through trains were ordered to report at eight o'clock tonight but the indications are that it will be impossible to get trains through then. Trains at present are only going to Greensburg, forty miles, and trains coming from the west are from one to three hours late and are abandoned here on account of the eastern blockade.

Message from Otis.

By Wire to THE TELEGRAM.

Washington, Feb. 14.—A telegram from General Otis last night to the adjutant general says that General Miller has taken the town of Iloilo. The insurgents had been given until the evening of the 11th to surrender but their hostile action brought on the engagement during the morning. The insurgents fired the native portion of the town but there was little loss of property of foreign inhabitants and no casualties to the United States troops.

American and British consulates were slightly damaged by wire in disembarking The American troops encountered slight resistance from the gunboat Samarc but were practically unimpeded in their advance.

More Wood Tonight.

The work of relieving the suffering is still going on, though since the supply of wood has been exhausted, little more can be done until tomorrow. Mayor Taylor today contracted with the authories of the C. F. & Y. V. for a supply of wood, which, however, has to be hauled from near Stokesdale. The first train from Stokesdale is due here late this afternoon so that the wood will not reach here in time for distribution tonight. Alderman Lewis, prominent on the relief committee, left this afternoon for Stokesdale to load the wood before the next train passes. Applications from the suffering are still coming in and those of our citizens who are able and have not subscribed, should not fail to do so.

No High Point News.

Though we are so near together we are deprived of our regular High Point news, through the demolished railroad service caused by the deep snow and extreme cold.

Still a few pairs left of the men's fine sample and odd size shoes at Thacker & Brockmann's to be sold at $1.98.

Dispensary Mass Meeting.

There will be an important mass meeting of the friends of the dispensary at the court house on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. All urged to be present.

Aged Citizen Dead

Mr. George Merris, and aged and highly respected citizen of this county living near Guilford College, died suddenly yesterday afternoon. He was 85 years of age.

Ladies' seven button overgaiters 25, 50 and 75 cents. Ten button overgaiters 50 cents at Thacker & Brockmann's.

You can find all sizes of men's, women's and children's rubber shoes at Thacker & Brockmann's.

SHALL WE VOTE?

The Dispensary From a Christian Standpoint.

Many good, Christian people who have the welfare of their fellow men at heart, question the propriety from a Christian standpoint of voting at the coming primary.

If it were a question between prohibition and the saloon, the objection would be well put and the path of duty plain.

But as we understand the present situation, the only choice we have is that of lessening the curse which is upon us. The only question upon which the temperance people have the privilege of expressing their sentiments and being heard by our legislative body at this time, is whether we shall have nine saloons open and in full blast from early morn until midnight hours, with all the attractions that art can devise to allure and entice the father, husband, son and brother into the vortex of ruin and despair, or shall we restrict the evil and curtail its influence by reducing the number from nine to one and placing that one under restrictions which tend to discourage rather than encourage the terrible curse of the drink habit.

I am frank to say that the proposition is not what we desired as prohibitionists, yet who will say that nine saloons, unrestricted plying their trade of destruction, is preferable to one restricted.

If we cannot kill the monster at one blow let us cripple him and destroy some of his most dangerous features, standing ready to strike the death blow whenever the opportunity may offer. C.

Dispensary Notice.

To the Friends of the Dispensary:

Although the opponents of the dispensary resolved in mass meeting last night to take no part in the primary Thursday, we want to urge every man to vote and work on Thursday. For the moral effect, let us roll up the largest possible vote. We must be vigilant, active, untiring.

They say that in Montana the whiskey has froze and is sold in chunks by the pound.

Aguinaldo addressed a body of Filipinos at Polo and his imagination evidently got the best of him when he announced that he had won a victory and killed 2,300 American soldiers

In the death of Hon. John Manning, the eminent professor of law in the University, the state loses one of her brainy and distinguished men. A short sketch of his life appears with the notice of his death in another column.

The present cold snap is said to be the most severe since 1857—longer ago than most of us can remember. Last night was the coldest of the cold in Greensboro, the mercury running in different places from 2 to 4 degrees below zero.

What's the matter with the primary scheme? It is not an election to determine what shall or shall not be law; but simply a means of satisfying our representatives as to the will of the people on the dispensary question. It was not the plan of the dispensary advocates; but they recognizing it as fair, and they want nothing but what is fair, agreed to it and will abide by it.

Lieut. Godfry's Career.

The history of Lieut. Dan Godfrey is so well known that little need be said It is sufficient to say that he is the greatest bandmaster and composer the annals of the English army have ever known. He and his band have officiated on all the most momentous public events of the last forty years, during the time he was leader of the famous Grenadier Guards Band. All the great military heroes of Britain, such as Lord Roberts, Lord Wolseley, Lord Kitchener, have marched to the music of Dan Godfrey and his band. At all the most prominent exhibitions in London, and the principal public festivals, he and his men have been leading features.

The band which he brings with him to America is composed of many of the best known soloists in England, and of picked men who served in the Grenadier Guards, the Coldstream Guards, the First and Second Life Guards, the Royal Horse Guards, and the Scots Guards.

Dangers of the Grip.

The greatest danger trom La Grippe is of its resulting in pneumonia. If reasonable care is used, however, and Chamberlain's Cough Remedy taken, all danger will be avoided. Among the tens of thousands who have used this remedy for la grippe we have yet to learn of a single case having resulted in pneumonia which shows conclusively that this remedy is a certain preventive of that dangerous disease. It will cure la grippe in less time than any other treatment. It is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by C. E. Holton.

The bodies of three supposed aeronauts, who, it is suspected, are Herr Andree and his two companions, have been found in northern Siberia.

An Honest Medicine for La Grippe,

George W. Waitt of South Gardiner, Mo., says: "I have had the worst cough, cold, chills and grip and have taken lots of trash of no account but profit to the vender. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the only thing that has done any good whatever. I have used one 50-cent bottle and the chills, cold and grip have all left me. I congratulate the manufacturers of an honest medicine." For sale by C. E. Holton.

In the battle with the Filipinos Saturday the loss of the enemy is estimated at fully 50 killed and wounded to one American killed or wounded.

For La Grippe

Thomas Whitfield & Co., 250 Wabash ave., corner Jackson st., one of Chicago's oldest and most prominent druggists, recommend Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for la grippe, as it not only gives a prompt and complete relief, but also counteracts any tendency of la grippe to result in pneumonia. A CITY NIGHT.

Come, let us forth and wander the rich,
the murmuring night,
The sky blue dusk of summer trembles
above the street,
On either side uprising glimmer houses
pale,
But me the turbulent bubble and voice of crowds delight.
For me the wheels make music, the mingled cries are sweet.
Motion and laughter call; we hear, we will not fall.

For see, in secret vista, with soft, retiring stars,
With clustered suns, that stare upon the throng below,
With pendant dazzling moons, that cast a noonday white,
The full streets beckon. Come, for toil
has burst his bars,
And idle eyes rejoice, and feet unhasting go.
Oh, let us out and wander the gay and golden night.

THE MYSTERY OF DREAMS.

What Can Flit Through a Man's Brain In One Minute.

It is very certain that the majority of dreams are only of momentary duration, though extended occasionally to the length of a minute

In proof of this Dr. Sholz tells the following story from his experience "After excessive bodily fatigue and a day of mental strain of a not disagreeable kind I betook myself to bed after I had wound my watch and placed it on the night table Then I lay down beside a burning lamp Soon I found myself on the high sea on board a well known ship. I was again young and stood on the lookout I heard the roar of water, and golden clouds floated around me How long I stood so I did not know, but it seemed a very long time

"Then the scene changed I was in the country, and my long lost parents came to greet me They sent me to church, where the fond organ sounded. I was delighted, but at the same time wondered to see my wife and children there. The priest mounted the pulpit and preached, but I could not understand what he said for the sound of the organ, which continued to play I took my son by the hand, and with him ascended the church tower, but again the scene changed. Instead of being near my son I stood near an early known but long dead officer I ought to explain that I was an army surgeon during the maneuvers. I was wondering why the major should look so young, when quite close to my ears a cannon sounded.

"Terrified, I was hurrying off, when I woke up and noticed that the supposed cannon shot had its cause in the opening of the bedroom door, through some one entering It was as if I had lived through an eternity in my dream, but when I looked at my watch I saw that since I had fallen asleep not more than one minute had elapsed—a much shorter time than it takes to relate the occurrence." —St. Louis Republic.

The Ghost In "Hamlet."

Not many years ago at the Queen's theater, Dublin, during one of the late T. C. King's engagements, "Hamlet' was being played to a densely crowded house. The actor portraying the part of the Ghost solaced himself during his long wait from the first to the third act by perusing the evening paper, using his spectacles in so doing Being interested in some article (probably the "weights" for an important handicap), he delayed leaving the greenroom until the moment of hearing his cue, when, hastily snatching up his truncheon, he rushed upon the stage without his beard of "sable silvered" or removing his spectacles.

A titter greeted his appearance, but still the solemnity of the darkened stage and the fine acting of King as Hamlet prevented any great outburst until the Queen, replying to Hamlet's question, "Do you see nothing there?" answered, "Nothing at all Yet all that is I see,' when a voice from aloft exclaimed, "Lend her your specs, old boy, ' followed by another: "Hould your row Sure he's put them on to see to shave himself." —Cornhill Magazine.

A Lawyer's Retort.

The greater number of cases are tried before judges without juries, and the occupants of the bench are accustomed to resent an eloquent appeal as something in the nature of an insult to their mental powers.

"Do you think to soften my heart," sarcastically asked a well known chancery judge when a member of the equity bar, making a rare attempt at rhetoric, drew a pathetic picture of his client's wrongs.

"My lord," replied the counsel, who who at once recognized the failure of his appeal, but was quick to find success in his retort, "I know it is impossible." —London Globe.

He Wasn't a Gormand.

That wary old fellow, Bailie Macduff, was enticed into a friend's house the other night, and his host managed to win 50 shillings from him at "nap." What is more remarkable, when the bailie had parted with his last shilling he rose, full of wrath.

"Won't you stay to supper?" pressed his host. "We have a fine bit of ham waiting."

"No, not I. Dae ye think I eat 50 shillings' worth of ham?" London Answers.

A Trifling Change.

"I guess I'm willing to go," said the farmer, when they told him his hours would be but few "It is just a change from havin my nose to the grindstone to havin it to the tombstone."—Indianapolis Journal.

In ancient Egypt when a cat died in a private house the inmates shaved their eyebrows. The killing of a cat, even accidentally, was considered a capital offense.

Two Slips by Dickens.

Mr. Marcus Stone, the English artist, was when a young man much associated with Dickens as an illustrator of "Our Mutual Friend" and of "Great Expectations." He notes that Dickens' characters were so positively real to him that the artists never had the least difficulty in learning all about them from him.

"When," says Mr. Stone, "I had to go to him and get instructions and hints as to the characters I had to draw, I always got a clear and definite answer, except on two occasions. You will remember that Silas Wegg, in 'Our Mutual Friend,' had a wooden leg. I asked Dickens which leg it was. He gave me an answer which turned out to be wrong. The other occasion was this: When he was discussing the cover of the story, he said that one of the scenes in it should be the death of Eugene Raeburn. You will remember that Eugene Raeburn does not die. His creator relented at the last moment and allowed him to live."

Anthony Trollope, the artist says, was just the reverse of this. "He did not seem to take a thing like the same interest in his characters as Dickens. When I would ask him a question about one of his characters, his answer nearly always was, 'I don't know.' 'Had the young lady fair hair or dark?' I would ask. 'I don't know,' was the reply. "Was she tall or middle sized or small?" I would inquire. 'I don't know,' was again the answer."

When Gunpowder Was New.

A curious feature about this evolution in methods of hunting was the hesitation with which gunpowder was taken up by the great nobles. Not only did it take quite a century to familiarize hunters with it, but the evidence that has come down to us shows that the humble classes were the first to use it for shooting game. Maximilian, ardent sportsman that he was, tells us himself that he could shoot farther and with greater accuracy with his crossbow than his keeper could with the fire tube. To prove this he tells us the well known story of a certain chamois standing at a distance of 200 fathoms, which, after being pronounced as too far off by his benchman, who was armed with one of the first sporting firearms mentioned in print, comes tumbling down, pierced at the first attempt, by the emperor's bolt.

From other sources we learn of strict measures being adopted to prevent poachers and "wood loafers" using firearms, and this at a period when princes still used the cumbrous crossbow and spear. It was only in the last quarter of the sixteenth century that firearms had ousted other weapons for certain forms of the chase, the deer battue being among the latter.—Gentleman's Magazine.

Major Lawrie and the Spider.

Major Lawrie is the hero of an interesting superstition. Before Atbara he discovered in the ventilator of his helmet an energetic spider, which came out in the evening and, having had his supper on flies, returned to his hiding place. Perhaps, remembering the story of Bruce and the spider, the major left his new friend unmolested and went into the Atbara fight with him. Men were killed all round, but Major Lawrie escaped without a scratch. At Omdurman he commanded a battery and again was unwounded. Meanwhile the spider slumbered in the helmet, waiting for the ridiculous human commotion to cease that he might come out and kill flies for supper.

When the hurly burly was over, Major Lawrie packed various articles to be sent home and among them the helmet and the spider. Too late, he remembered that he had sent his little friend on a long voyage without any larder. In great tribulation he hastened to London, opened the helmet box, expecting to find the spider a corpse, and was rejoiced to see him alive, and even vigorous. Stranger still, on the way to England he (we beg pardon—she) had produced two young spiders!—Public Opinion.

Baltimore the Social Arcadia.

It would surprise New Yorkers to know that there are families in Baltimore who go into the very best society of the city—and it is universally admitted that there is no better society in the world than that of this city—and whose incomes are under $2,000.

It is not cheapness that rules Baltimore society, but it is reasonableness. Search the world over and you will not find lovelier dancers, prettier girls or more universal cheerfulness. It is in the atmosphere of the town.—Baltimore American.

The Real Reason.

Here is a juvenile story picked up by the Chicago News: What bright eyes you have!" said the visitor to 5-year-old Tommy. "You must get plenty of sleep."

"Yes'm," he answered. "My mamma makes me go to bed every night at 8 o'clock."

"That's to keep you healthy," said the visitor.

"No, it ain't," replied the youngster. "It's so she can mend my clothes."

Comparing Notes.

"My family can't help feeling a little proud of having been carried over by the Mayflower," said the young woman who was visiting in Chicago.

"Is that so?" answered the young man interestedly. "None of our folks ever went into the florist business. What brought us through was wheat." —Washington Star.

Trinity Notes.

The Current Topic Club met Saturday night. The program was as follows: Newell Dwight Hillis and the Prominent Ministers, by Prof. R. L. Flowers: The Illustrating of Magazines, by Prof. C. W. Edwards The condition in Cuba, by John M. Flowers, and the Poetry of William Watson, by Prof. Edwin Mims. The meetings of the Club are largely attended by students and members of the faculty.

There has recently been organized a Trinity College Library Association. The object is to create interest in books and culture, and to improve the College Library. The following board of directors was elected by the faculty: Dr. J. S. Bassett, supt., W. W. Flowers, Prof. Edwin Mims, Rev. W. L. Grissom, L. W. McMullen and Dr. T. N. Ivey. A circular letter will be sent out soon in interest of the Association.

Opening of the Social Season and Inauguration of the Magnificent

New York & Florida Limited Service

JANUARY 16, 1899.

The opening of the Florida season will be signalized this year as usual by the placing in service of the "New York and Florida Limited" between New York and St. Augustine, Fla. This is acknowledged to be the finest train in the world, in its appointments, luxury and detail of finish, and the first of these trains was constructed by the Pullman company for the use of the President of the United States on official tours.

"The New York and Florida Limited" leaves New York daily except Sunday at 11:50 a. m., via the pennsylvania Railroad, the Southern Railway, Florida Central & Peninsular R. R. and the Florida East Coast Railway, and reaches St. Augustine at 2 20 p. m. the following day, making the run, which exceeds 1,0 0 miles, in little more than twenty-four hours. No train has attracted so much attention, and its f me has been heralded wherever railroading is known. It is composed of Pullman compartment cars, each room being finished in different woods and supplied with private lavatory and toilet; Pullman drawing-room sleeping cars of the latest pattern and finish; a royal club car for the gentlemen; an observation car with a handsome drawing room at its rear opening on to a wide platform; a library car, and dining car, in which the service and the cuisine rank with the finest New York hotels. This "New York and Florida Limited" runs through solid to St. Augustine with the exception of one car which is detached at Columbia, S. C., and goes through to Aiken, which it reaches at 9:35 the next morning after leaving New York, and Augusta at 9:50. Brunswick and Jeckyl Island are conveniently reached by this train at 12 o'clock noon through the perfect connections afforded at Everett, Ga.

There are two other fine trains between New York ond Florida via "The Florida Short Line," one the "Washington and Southwestern Vestibule Limited," leaving New York at 4:20 p. m. daily, and the "United States Fast Mail," leaving New York at 12:05 midnight. The former train carries through Pullman drawing room sleeping cars between New York, Jacksonville and Tampa, and also offers Pullman sleeping car service between New York and Augusta, Ga., with connections for Aiken, Brunswick and Jekyl Island. The latter carries through drawing room sleeping cars between New York and Jacksonville, connecting with parlor car service to points on F. C. & P. R. R. and F. E. C. Ry. Dining cars are operated on all trains of the Southern Ry. "The Florida Short Line" in connection with the Florida East Coast Railway to Miami offers the most direct, quickest and delightful service to Nassau, Havana and Key West. For full information, reservations, etc., apply to J. L. Adams, G. E. A., F. C. & P. R. R., 353 Broadway, New York, or to A. S. Thweatt, E. P. A., Southern Ry, 271 Broadway, New York.

MOONLIGHT IN MUSIC.

Story of How Beethoven Created His Wonderful Sonata.

Beethoven's famous composition, the "Moonlight Sonata," is said to have been composed under the following circumstances:

One evening, as Beethoven and a friend were hurrying through the streets of Bonn, they heard the familiar notes of the "Sonata In F." Something in the musician's touch attracted the attention of Beethoven, and he stopped and listened. Suddenly the music stopped, and the despairing words of the musician came to them through the open window, "Oh, if I could but hear some really good musician play this wonderful piece!" and the words ended in a sob.

"Let us go in," said Beethoven. They entered and found the player a young girl, poor and blind. Beethoven sat down at the old harpsichord and played as he had never played before. His listeners were spellbound. "Tell us," they begged, "who are you?" For answer he played the opening bars in the "Sonata In F." "It is Beethoven!" they exclaimed in awe and admiration.

Suddenly the candle flickered and went out. Beethoven ceased playing and bowed his head upon his hand. His friend threw open the shutters. A flood of beautiful moonlight entered the room. Its transfiguring light touched up the poor old instrument and rested upon the noble figure bowed before it. The profound silence was broken at last by the musician, who said: "Listen! I will improvise a sonata to the moonlight." Then was created this wonderful sonata, beginning in a sad, tender movement, the embodiment in sound of the gentle moonlight transfiguring and glorifying the dark earth.

Suddenly the music ceased, and with a brief farewell Beethoven hurried home to put upon paper this famous composition.—Philadelphia Saturday Post.

A REALISTIC ACT.

An Amusing Story of Jefferson as Rip Van Winkle.

While he was playing Rip Van Winkle at Chicago Jefferson once went to the theater very much exhausted by a long day's fishing on the lake. As the curtain rose on the third act it disclosed the white haired Rip still deep in his 20 years' nap. Five, 10, 20 minutes passed and he did not awaken. The audience began to get impatient and the prompter uneasy.

The great actor doubtless knew what he was about, but this was carrying the realistic business too far. The fact was that all this time Jefferson was really sleeping the sleep of the just, or rather of the fisherman who had sat eight hours in the sun. Finally the gallery became uproarious, and one of the "gods" wanted to know if there was going to be "19 years more of this snooze business!"

At this point Jefferson began to snore. This decided the prompter, who opened a small trap beneath the stage and began to prod Rip from below. The fagged comedian fumbled in his pocket for an imaginary railway ticket and muttered drowsily. "Going right through, 'ductor."

At this entirely new reading the audience was transfixed with amazement, when all at once Jefferson sat up with a loud shriek, evidently in agony. The exasperated prompter had "jabbed" him with a pin. Consciousness of the situation came to him and the play went on after that with a rush.—Philadelphia Post.

A Binding Chinese Oath.

We are accustomed to all manner of swearing—that is, of course, legal oath taking—in this country, but we do not recollect hearing of so queer a medium of attestation as a "guillotined black cockatoo." That is what the police of a country district in New South Wales had to provide the other day for a finicking Chinaman, who obstinately declined to swear on anything else. Headless fowls were brought, but in vain. Even a black swan, a luxury surely for a Chinese witness, was declined.

After many days a dead cockatoo of the required hue was discovered in a hut of one of the other "heathen," as they call the Celestials, who muloted the officials 10 shillings for a fast decomposing bird. Then the solemn and peculiar oath was duly administered, when the difficult witness blandly declared that he knew nothing about the case and sat down smiling.—London Chronicle.

Revised Geography.

A correspondent reports an occurrence which took place at a night school.

"Williams," asked the instructor, "which is the largest island in the world?"

"It's either Asia or Africa," replied the young man to whom the question was addressed.

"I am speaking of islands, Williams. Those are continents."

"I think not, sir," drawled Williams. "When the Suez canal was cut, it made islands of both of 'em, sir. Come to think of it, sir, the largest is Asia and Europe. It's all one piece of ground."—Youth's Companion.

His First Client.

In an address delivered at Hartford the Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale told the story of James Russell Lowell's first client as Lowell had told it to him. Lowell had hardly opened his law office when a stranger appeared. The young lawyer deferentially offered him a chair, took out his notebook, talked of the weather, and when he finally came to business found the stranger was a bill collector.

"What will be the cost of the war?" asked Queen Augusta when French and Germans grew belligerent. "Only a Napoleon," replied Bismarck.

La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Shepherd, publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "No one will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Howard Gardner.

POLITENESS IN TATTERS.

Not Easy to Judge a Man by the Condition of the Clothes He Wears.

The Utah Northern train was disappearing in the distance when Arah Cridge, the storekeeper at Market Lake, who had gone over to the station to ascertain if any oysters had come up from Granger for him, saw a badly battered and tattered figure hobbling along the ties, coming from the direction of the vanishing train. Cridge forgot his oysters in wonderment at the outlandish raggedness and general damage and disaster revealed in the person of the oncomer.

He was a tramp, and his face was scratched and his eye was blacked, as Cridge saw when he drew near. But he was a polite tramp nevertheless.

"Good morning, my friend!" he said, bowing courteously to the storekeeper. "Can you tell me the name of a man who would care to share in the benefits rising out of $50,000?"

He did not appear to be crazy, as Cridge, who had once chased elusive gold mines, gave him some attention.

"I don't just know," he said. "I myself?"—

"Exactly so, and a first class partner you will make! Twenty-five thousand sounds nice, doesn't it? Let me have a chew of tobacco, please."

Cridge gave him a lump of the desired commodity and asked him to explain what he meant.

"You observe the train now dimming in the distance?" inquired the tramp, Cridge did.

"You might not believe it, but I was ejected from that train for the vulgar reason of poverty."

"But you have—how about your fifty thou—"

"One moment! Wait! I was thrown off like a mere bag of rags. I rolled. I scraped. I skinned myself. I tore my apparel. I cracked my kneepan. I dug up the soil and turned seven somersaults."

Cridge nodded sympathetically.

"In other words, I was treated vilely by a brakeman—a redheaded brakeman who used profane language. I think he also struck me, but there was some confusion, and perhaps it was a telegraph pole. Receiving such indignity, you can readily understand what must be the prompt action of a gentleman."

"Well, I dunno," said Cridge guardedly. "But a man with money"—

"Exactly. I see you perfectly understand. You appreciate the enormity of the offense. I shall sue for $50,000 damages. You will pay the costs and give me $5 now as guarantee of good faith. When I win, I shall levy on the road to pay my claim and you will be made general manager with power to issue passes. Please give me the $5 as soon as possible. I am aware that my present guise and garb"—

"Well, I dunno," said Cridge, drawing back. "You see"—

"You surely don't doubt my word! You surely don't question that I was thrown off the train substantially as described?"

"No. I should ruther guess there was even more hustle to it than you've told. But"—

"You don't deny that I was damaged seriously? This eye! This peeled arm! This ear!"

"No, that's all right, but I can't go into it."

The tramp looked upon the storekeeper with great loftiness beaming from his one good eye.

"I see. You are not in sympathy with the poor and oppressed. You are allied to the money power. You are subsidized. Your finer feelings of humanity have been crushed out by your association with capital. Never mind. I am used to disappointments. If you will give me 10 cents, I will dance three extremely interesting jigs and will then by a clever feat of parlor magic swallow a knife and withdraw it from my ear."

But Mr. Cridge said he had to go and see about his oysters.—Chicago Record.

An Ideal Theater.

Gabriele d'Annunzio, the Italian novelist and dramatist, hopes to bring about the erection of a theater, built after the style of the ancient classical theaters, to stand on the shores of the lake of Albano, near Rome. He expects it to be opened in the spring of 1899 and has at his disposition, so he says, money enough—3,000,000 or 4,000,000 francs—to carry out the project. It is to be open two months of the year only. In it he desires to produce tragedies in which an absolutely modern inspiration will be paired with purity of form worthy of the best days of Athens. Music is not to be excluded from these productions; like the dance, it will serve to adorn the works that will be chosen and to heighten their meaning.

Mr. d'Annunzio proposes to leave the freest hand to the authors and their interpreters. "Whoever has a fine idea and the power of expressing it in accordance with Greco-Italian ideas of beauty may obtain the suffrages of this new city of life," he says. Besides tragedies, eclogues, pastorals and satirical dramas will be performed. French plays may be done in French and Italian. Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will be invited to give several performances. Mr. d'Annunzio himself is now working on adaptations of "Antigone" and "Agamemnon," which will be given in the theater. Finally, it is already announced that the first work to be performed will be Mr. d'Annunzio's "Dead City,' played by Mme. Duse.—Rome Letter.

Diesel Gas Engine.

In the Diesel gas engine, which is now attracting much attention in Germany, the mixture of air and gas which moves the piston is not suddenly exploded when it takes fire, but burns slowly enough to impart a more gradual impulse to the engine. A 1,000 horse-power motor of this type is promised for the Paris exposition of 1900.—New York Tribune.

Free Pills.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For malaria and liver troubles they have been proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c per box. Sold by C. E. Holton, druggist.

HON. JOHN MANNING DEAD.

Died of Apoplexy Sunday Night at Chapel Hill.

Chapel Hill Feb. 13—Dr. John Manning, professor of law in the University Law School died of apoplexy last night at 8:45, aged 69 years. He has been ill for several weeks, growing worse Sunday.

Hon. John Manning was born at Edenton, July 30, 1830. His father was a captain in the United States navy.

Dr. Manning was graduated from the University of this state in 1850. He went on a journey with his father to South America in 1850 and '51. He was licensed to practice law in 1853, and settled in Pittsboro.

In 1856 he was married to Miss Louisa J. Hall of Pittsboro.

He was a member of the convention of 1861, and being opposed to secession voted to substitute Judge Badger's ordinance for that of secession, but failing in this and seeing war inevitable, he voted for the ordinance of secession. He was first lieutenant and then adjutant of the first company that went to the war from Chatham county In 1861 he was appointed by Jefferson Davis receiver of the Confederate states.

In 1870 he was elected to the forty-first congress from the fourth district as a democrat. He was a member of the constitutional convention of 1875. In 1880 he was elected to the general assembly and was chairman of the judiciary committee. This legislature elected him as one of the commissioners to revise the statute laws of the state.

In 1881 he became professor of law in the University, which, in 1882, conferred upon him the degree of LL. D —Special to Charlotte Observer.

Red Hair the Best Wear.

Why are redheaded people less subject to baldness than those with fair or brown hair? An English physician has answered this conundrum.

The hair of the redheaded is relatively thick, one red hair being as thick as five blond or three brown hairs. With 80,000 red hairs the scalp is well thatched. With the same number of blond hairs one is almost bald. It takes 160,000 blond and 105,000 brown hairs to cover adequately an ordinary head.

Moral Effect.

Mrs. Greene—Do you always give your little boy castor oil for a cold?

Mrs. Gray—Yes, I give it for its moral effect exclusively.

Mrs. Greene—For its moral effect?

Mrs. Gray—Yes, it will have an influence upon him not to catch another cold.—Boston Transcript.

Profit From a Whale.

The profit from a single whale that is captured is very large. One about 50 feet long weighs 140,000 pounds and will give 60,000 pounds of blubber, from which 48,000 pounds of train oil can be made and 3,000 pounds of whalebone.

An Unfortunate Misapprehension.

A story of Lord Russell of Killowen, as told by himself, shows how risky a thing it may be, after all, for a prisoner to speak in his own defense. One such, who seemed to be really making out his innocence, the lord chief justice, who had missed a mumbled word, interrupted with the question, "What did you say—What was your last sentence?" "Three months, my lord," said the crestfallen prisoner pleader. It is hardly necessary to add that the lord chief justice forgot the admission or remembered it only in the prisoner's favor when that particular sentence had to be passed.—London Academy.

An Atchison View of Emporia.

Whenever a schoolteacher is needed in any part of the state of Kansas word is sent to Emporia, and the next train pulling out of that town carries a schoolteacher, with her notebooks, dictionaries, etc., in a bag at her side.

Don't they raise anything else but schoolteachers in Emporia? Did any man ever go to that town and get a bride?

Old Bill White must have lots of nerve to run a paper in a town with so many schoolteachers to watch his grammar.—Atchison Globe.

A Highly Intelligent Councilman.

At a meeting of the town council of a North Lincolnshire town a question arose as to the advisability of consecrating a new portion of the cemetery. A member suggested that "it would be best to consecrate it, as he had had his back yard done with it and 'it wore well.' "—English Exchange.

Lizard Came From His Mouth.

William Dickerson, of Chester, Pa. has been treated by a physician for bronchitis and other ailments, but with little relief. Last week while lying on a lounge, he was seized with a fit of coughing, and ejected a lizard from his mouth. He thinks that the reptile was taken into his stomach when he drank from a spring while gunning.

BRIEF LOCAL MATTERS.

St. Valentine's day.

Solicitor Wiley Rush, of Asheboro, is in the city returning home from Raleigh.

Hot water bags are very comfortable bed-fellows. See Fariss' ad for particulars.

We are sorry to state that Dr. John K. Wheeler is still confined to his home by sickness.

Don't forget the poor and unfortunate. If you have anything to contribute leave it at the Mayor's office.

A fine horse hitched to an empty wagon, fell at the South Elm street and Southern crossing this afternoon and was slightly hurt.

C. M. Vanstory & Co., the clothiers, hatters and furnishers, announce their last cut on heavy goods of all kinds. Read their ad on this page.

There will be school tomorrow and it is hoped that all the students will attend if possible, so that none may get behind with their studies.

The C. F. & Y. V. passenger trains which were annulled yesterday, have been running today, the southbound, due here at 11:55 a. m. coming in on time.

The meeting of the executive committee of the young people's society of Christian Endeavor, which was postponed from last evening, will be held this evening at 8 p. m., at the home of Dr Egbert W. Smith. All members of the society are cordially invited to meet with the committee.

Ex-Judge John Gray Bynum left at noon today for Pittsboro, where he appears in an important case this week. The present sheriff of that (Chatham) county is a populist and is about to be relieved of his office, it being claimed that he was not legally ele ted. Judge Bynum appears for the defense.

AS TO OUTSIDE BARROOMS.

The County Commissioners Will Protect the Citizens.

The agreement below has been entered into and duly signed by the county commissioners of Guilford county, which explains itself and should set at rest any idea or belief that if a dispensary is established for Greensboro the barrooms will move just on the outside and give more trouble than if located where the police can keep an eye on them. The following is the agreement:

"We agree, in case the dispensary system is adopted in Greensboro, not to depart from our past policy of granting no licenses for the sale of liquor in Guilford county.

"W. C. Michael,
"W. C. Boren,
"W. H Ragan."

Enjoyed The "Theft."

A Charlotte gentleman who wa in the city yesterday, said he sat by his window in his residence Sunday and watched people carry off his wood of of which he had about twenty cords. At least half that amount was taken off, he says, and he sat in silence and enjoyed it unknown to those who were "sponging" on him. One of the takers, as he started off with all he could carry glanced at the window and saw the owner. Immediately he dropped the wood and was about to depart when the gentleman raised the window and told him to help himself. And the lick almost killed "daddy."

To The Public.

All who are opposed to the proposed dispensary law and who have not, as yet, signed their names to the petition circulating against it, will please call at the office of W. G. Mebane & Co., or Simpson-Shields Shoe Co., and sign their names, and oblige.

Respectfully,

MATTERS GETTING WORSE.

Relief Train Sent From Here to The Washington Division.

When railroad traffic was almost entirely suspended yesterday the authorities fully expected that it would be resumed today and made an announcement to that effect. At 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon the following message was sent out from Washington: "No trains out of Washington. Traffic resumed Wednesday morning." In accordance with this all through trains were annulled as were also, all local trains except those enroute. The railroad authorities were not expecting the record-breaker which last night proved to be and this morning, with the mercury at 2 degrees below zero, all the rolling stock was in a worse condition than on yesterday.

The southbound vestibule, due here at 7:05 a. m. and the train from Norfolk, due here at 6:45 a. m. were annulled today. The northbound vestibule due here at 10:43 p. m., was stopped in Salisbury.

Though the situation here is awful, it is of course much worse further north. A relief train of eight cars, and about one hundred negro men and their bosses left here at 9 o'clock this morning for Monroe, to work on the division between there and Washington. It is said that 10 feet drifts are frequent, between Monroe and Washington.

The north side of the Southern's water tank here was so badly frozen this morning that it was of no use and trains coming in on the main line were compelled to shift to the south side of the depot to get water.

Dispensary Mass Meeting.

There will be an important mass meeting of the friends of the dispensary at the court house on Wednesday night a 8 o'clock. All urged to be present.

Attention Firemen.
